November 18, 2015

Refined Web Pages Provide...

- Improved service to faculty and students
- A satisfying web experience for faculty and students

Where does the refining happen?

- The Ares web interface lives on the Ares web server
- Individual HTML (Hypertext Markup Language) files
- CSS (cascading style sheets) files

Our Tools and Resources

- Inspect Element option in web browser
  - Right-click in browser and select from pop-up menu
  - Preview proposed changes
  - Identify where to make those changes in the css or html files
- HTML/source code editor
  - Notepad++ - <https://notepad-plus-plus.org/>

- HTML and CSS syntax changes
  - <http://www.w3schools.com/html/>
  - <http://www.w3schools.com/css/default.asp>
- Javascript/Jquery
  - <http://www.w3schools.com/js/default.asp>
  - <http://www.w3schools.com/jquery/default.asp>

Our Goals for Today

1. Change font style and color
2. Improve the student's View Item Details page
3. Segment the item request forms

Our Goals for Today (cont.)

4. Improve the menus
5. Translate site codes on Physical Details page
6. Widen the layout of the Ares pages

Goal # 1: Change font style and color

- Tools:
  - Inspect Element tool in web browser
  - CSS syntax changes – main.css
- Tasks:
  - Change table colors
  - Change font style

The screenshot shows a web browser window displaying a course page. A color picker dialog is open over the page, showing a color selection interface with a red arrow pointing to a table cell. The browser's developer tools are visible at the bottom, showing the HTML structure and CSS styles for the page. The HTML includes a table with a header row and several data rows. The CSS styles include background-color, font-size, and border properties.

Fonts

- Some fonts need to be available on the local computer, so a number of font possibilities are offered. Arial and sans-serif are safe bets
- You can use the Inspect Element on other websites to see what they use
- Google Fonts are fonts that can be loaded directly from the Google website, instead of having to be available on local machine
  - Beware of country restrictions on Google (i.e. China)

The bottom pane shows the CSS styles for the selected element, including:

element.style {
media="screen" ares.dll #nav-secondary li.active li a, #nav-secondary li.active li a:link, #nav-secondary li.active li a:visited { line-height: 1.3;
  background-color: #ffff00;
  padding: 0 0 0 12px;
  font-weight: normal;
  width: auto;
  color: #000;
  width: 130px;
  display: block;
  border-bottom: 1px solid #666666;
}
media="screen" ares.dll #nav-secondary li.active a:link, #nav- main.css:391

The right pane shows a visual representation of the element's box model with dimensions: margin (0), border (1px), padding (12px), and width (130px).

Things to remember when editing the Ares web interface

- Use the TestWeb folder that is inside of your Ares web directory
- View the TestWeb pages in a browser at [yourAresURL/ares/testweb/]
- Copy edited TestWeb pages to production directory.
  - Recommendation: Make temporary back-ups of production files to be changed in case you make a mistake and need to revert back

Things to remember when editing the Ares web interface (cont.)

- Test your changes thoroughly
  - Typos?
  - Unintentional affects on other elements?
  - How do they look in other browsers?
- Ask someone else to review your changes
- Ask for feedback from your campus community
- Revise as necessary
- Repeat the above steps as needed
